Three Killed; 37 Wounded

By STEVEN B. SWATT

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A two-hour battle between snipers and police in Watts left three Negro civilians dead today and 37 persons wounded by gunfire on the third anniversary of the bloody 1965 riot.

Police said 35 persons were arrested, 28 of them on felony charges. Five police officers were among the wounded and a sixth was injured when he was struck on the head.

Police chief Tom Reddin reported "things are very quiet on the street" at 4 a.m. PDT (7 a.m. EDT) more than five hours after the "major disturbance," erupted in Will Rogers park.

The racial violence apparently was triggered by the arrest of a woman on suspicion of drunkenness at the park amid the booths and rides of the Watts Summer Festival.

"We were fighting for our lives and we thought we were going to loose the whole thing," said Lt. Lou Ritter of the Los Angeles Police Departmnet.

Fired on Substation

During the violence, the police substation in Watts came under fire. Patrol cars were shot at.

At 4 a.m., there were 200 policemen patrolling the area extending a mile in each direction of the park, the focal point of the trouble.

Candidates, Campaigners

Captured Guards Are Released

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) — Two State Prison guards held by rebellious inmates were released unharmed Sunday after a newsman listened to prisoner grievances.

Two ringleaders of the six-hour disturbance were placed in maximum security cells after the meeting. The newsman, Al Spiers of Michigan City, listened with Warden Ward Lane and Anthony Kuharich, state correction commissioner, for more than an hour to various complaints from some 20 prisoners.

Spiers said the majority of the 150 inmates in the block appeared unconcerned although "about two dozen leaned over the railings of catwalks to see and hear what was going on."

The guards, Fred Parker, 25 of Michigan City, and Frank Dunn, 27, of Portage, Ind., told officials they were not abused or threatened. Spiers left the cellblock soon after the guards.

Lane identified the ringleaders as William Francis Brown, 31, and James Lee Collins, 20, who forced the guards into top tier cells in a four-tier cellhouse adjoining the prison's administration building.

Brown and Collins were armed with makeshift knives, officials said. Brown is serving a 1-10 year sentence for assault with intent to commit a felony. Collins was sentenced to life as an accessory after the fact of murder.

At word of the guards' seizure a 50-man Indiana state police riot squad was sent to the prison. With a 22-man prison riot squad it stood by outside the 30-foot-high walls while Kuharich and Lane spent several hours talking with the prisoners outside the cellhouse door.

When the rebellious inmates asked to see a newspaperman Spiers entered the cellhouse. He is Editorial director of the Nixon Newspaper Group, of which the Michigan City News-Dispatch is a member.

Grievances aired by the convicts, Spiers said, concerned policies of the State Parole Board and appointment to it last January of John J. Barton, former state police superintendent and former Indianapolis mayor.

The prisoners said that Barton "is a police officer with a policeman's training and with a policeman's attitude," Spiers reported.

Nixon Plans Use of TV In Campaign Strategy

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is mapping a Republican presidential campaign that will stress television instead of hectic rounds of vote-seeking rallies.

And Nixon seeks also to make the most of his vice presidential running mate, Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, in dealing with campaign issues and in covering territory for the ticket.

Those themes emerged from the strategy sessions under way during Nixon's working vacation at Mission Bay, a San Diego resort. A new round of talks was set today, while Agnew planned his first independent campaign trip and Mrs. Nixon, with daughter Tricia, sets out for three days of appearances from Seattle to Los Angeles.

Sen. John Tower of Texas, a Nixon ally in the campaign for the GOP presidential nomination and the chairman of his key issues committee, was due in San Diego to sit in on the talks shaping the autumn program.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's chief spokesman, said the nominee and his men already had decided to continue the television emphasis they considered a key weapon during the presidential primaries.

Cutback

Along with that emphasis, Klein said, will come a cutback in the round of personal appearances which has characterized past presidential campaigns. Klein said the Nixon forces realize that when the nominee is going to face a massive television audience, he must have time to rest and prepare.

"This time, there will be adequate preparation," Klein said.

That evidently is a lesson learned from the physically exhausting campaign Nixon ran eight years ago. The problem was evidenced most clearly when a tired and haggard Nixon faced John F. Kennedy in the first of their televised debates.

As for teamwork between the two GOP nominees, Klein said Nixon wants to fashion "the most closely coordinated dual campaign in history."

Klein said the staffs of the presidential and the vice presidential nominee will be tied closely together, and their travels—as well as the things they say on issues—will be carefully coordinated.

This, too, apparently stems from a lesson learned in the narrow defeat of 1960. Henry Cabot Lodge was the vice presidential nominee then, and he sometimes took an independent course.

Agnew participated in some of the campaign planning sessions Sunday and tape recorded a broadcast message to the citi-

Dubcek Meets Ulbricht To Discuss Communist Relations

By JAMES O. JACKSON

PRAGUE (UPI)—Czech Communist leader Alexander Dubcek wants to assure his most bitter critic that in Czechoslovakia democracy can flourish alongside communism without hurting the rest of the Soviet bloc.

In the resort of Karlovy Vary Kkarlsbad Dubcek was meeting East Germany's Walter Ulbricht today in the third in a series of talks in which the Czechs are trying to establish a new position in East European communism.

Karlovy Vary is 75 miles northwest of Prague and 15 miles from the East German border.

In the first in the series of confrontations, the Czechs conferred for three days with the Soviet Union's politburo at Cierna Nad Tisou, Czechoslovakia. At that meeting the Czechs were permitted to go ahead with their reforms without interference.

The second was a meeting at Bratislav, Czechslovakia with Poland, East Germany, Hungary and Bulgaria.

Bitter Attacks

The most bitter attacks on the liberalized Czechoslovak regime have come from East Germany. When the Czechs got official permission to go ahead with their reforms the East German radio and newspapers were the last in the Soviet block to end the criticism.

One of the East Germans' most consistent charges has been that the West was supporting the Czech reforms.

Dubcek and Premier Oldrich Cernik took a stroll without a bodyguard along Prague streets Saturday, a Prague newspaper said, and Dubcek answered questions from people on the street. He told them it was wrong to think the West was backing the reforms.

Dubcek pointedly complained that the United States refused to return to Czechoslovakia 18 tons of gold captured from the Nazis in World War II.

President Tito of Yugoslavia left Prague Sunday to the cheers of thousands of Czechoslovaks grateful for his support in the Soviet-Czech crisis. Romania's Nicolae Ceausescu will come to Prague soon for talks with the Dubcek regime. Czech sources said. Both Communist leaders have backed the Czech stand against Moscow.

U.S. Troops Battle Cong Near Saigon

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops guarding the southern approaches to Saigon battled the Viet Cong today at two points nine miles apart.

Helicopters landed more than 1,000 men from the 9th Division in rice fields 24 miles south of Saigon in an attempt to encircle an enemy force estimated at more than 100 troops.

Details were sketchy, and no casualty figures were reported as yet. But the fighting was said to be heavy at times.

That fight was just south of Rach Kien, a key district capital. The Americans were sent in after intelligence reports told of the enemy unit, and the GIs drew fire shortly after they landed.

Wipe Out Enemy

Nine miles farther north and only 15 miles below Saigon, another 300 men from the 9th Division virtually wiped out an enemy platoon of 40 or so men, according to initial field reports. Only three Americans were reported wounded.

In a delayed report, U.S. headquarters said that a Viet Cong force fired with bazooka-type rockets Saturday at the U.S. freighter Southport II as it approached Saigon.

U.S. Navy gunboats, helicopter gunships and Air Force fighter-bombers attacked the enemy positions along the bank and then stafed fleeing groups of Viet Cong. A U.S. spokesman said 20 Viet Cong were killed, there were no U.S. casualties and the ship was not damaged.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force B52s bombed North Vietnam for the first time in nearly a month, while U.S. tactical fighter-bombers flew 110 missions Sunday against enemy supply lines in North Vietnam's southern panhandle. The latter pilots reported destroying or damaging 42 trucks and 17 supply boats.

The B52 strikes along the frontier ranged from inside the northern half of the demilitarized zone about eight miles west-northwest of the Marine base at Con Thien to five miles inside North Vietnam.

Military spokesmen said the bombers attacked North Vietnamese troops believed preparing to infiltrate into South Vietnam's northernmost provinces. They also rained explosives on truck parks and on antiaircraft and artillery emplacements posing a threat to American fighter-bombers and combat bases just below the demilitarized zone.

Strike Troops

One mission struck at suspected enemy troop positions 12 miles west of Da Nang, near the spot where U.S. Marines fought a fierce close-range battle with about 100 North Vietnamese soldiers from dusk Saturday to Sunday morning.

The North Vietnamese broke off contact and withdrew after American artillery and dive bombers pounded their fortified positions. Twenty-two North Vietnamese and eight Leathernecks were killed and 42 Americans were wounded, U.S. headquarters said.

Da Nang, headquarters of the Marines in South Vietnam and the country's second largest city, is considered a likely target for the major enemy offensive which expects the U.S. Command within the next month or so. But neutral diplomats in Saigon don't believe an enemy offensive is imminent. They say the reduction in ground fighting since mid-June is a deliberate enemy de-escalation intended to win a halt in American bombing of North Vietnam.

Other Action

In other action over the weekend, allied troops sealed off a village about 25 miles north of Saigon and captured six Viet

N. Viets Condemn Nixon's Policies

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam today condemned Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon's Vietnam policy and accused him of "impudence."

Hanoi spokesman Nguyen Than Le also told a news conference that Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's recent statement that peace in Vietnam was closer than ever was "inexact."

Le said press reports from last week's GOP convention in Miami Beach said Nixon had implied privately to Republican leaders he would be prepared, as President, to use any weapon, apparently including atomic bombs, to bring North Vietnam to its knees.

"This sole statement is enough to understand the position and policy of Richard Nixon on Vietnam," Le said.

The Hanoi spokesman said Nixon stated he refused to "sell out Vietnam." Le said, "by this statement, Nixon showed the impudence to consider the southern part of our nation as his personal property."

Le said it also showed the Republican standard bearer is prepared to "perpetuate the division of Vietnam and preserve the South as a neocolonial military base of the United States."

Le, spokesman for the delegation in talks with the United States on cooling down the war, dismissed the Republican Party

Five Men Killed By Unknown Poison

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Five men unloading a cargo of fish toppled one-by-one Sunday into the hold of their boat where they were found dead.

Lee County sheriff's investigator James Loeffler said, "We don't know what killed them or where it came from. They either got a whiff of a toxic gas or some sort of chemical poison."

Back from a successful trip, the crew of the 125-foot trawler Novelty and dockworkers were preparing to flood the ship's hold to enable huge pumps to pull out both water and fish.

"When the water was turned on," Loeffler said, "the man holding the hose immediately collapsed and fell into the hold."

The first man to react, Francis L. Winter, 53, of Punta Gorda, Fla., jumped through the hatch and reached the body when he, too, keeled over.

As he slumped into the hold, his brother, Joseph, 55, also of Punta Gorda, raced to the hatchway. He got his feet on the ladder and his hand on the rail when the poison hit him and he fell the rest of the way, Loeffler said.

"The other two men never left the deck," the investigator said. "They just looked into the hold and collapsed through the hatch."

He said a sixth man was felled by the incredibly fast-acting poison, but was rescued by the ship's one-armed cook, Clyde Parrish, and dock worker Roy McNeely.

"All of this transpired in less than two minutes," Loeffler said. McNeely descended with a rope while holding his breath and raised the last man to be felled.

"Parrish is the hero if there is one," Loeffler said. Without knowing what had stricken his shipmates and the dock workers, he administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Loeffler said Lawrence Finley, 33, of North Port Charlotte, began to breathe without aid and was rushed to a nearby hospital where he was reported unconscious and in critical condition.

Meanwhile, William Conrad of the Fort Myers fire department rescue team, went into the smelly hold with ropes and brought up the body of Kenneth Smith, 55, manager of the fish processing plant where the ship was docked.

NEWSROOM NOTES — Despite the fact that the peace negotiators in Paris are as far apart as they were when they first began meeting three months ago, there is still a lot of talk about what to do with all the money that is being spent in Vietnam once the war is over.

There is no end of claimants for the 30 billion or so dollars a year that will supposedly be "released" when peace comes—a massive boost to urban renewal, massive aid to education, a guaranteed income to raise millions above the poverty line, more highways, etc.

Unfortunately, there is a flaw in the euphoria. It seems to be completely forgotten that this 30 billion really doesn't exist It is manufactured money, printing press money. It is borrowed against the productivity and earnings of future generations of Americans and its only backing is their willingness and ability to pay the debt.

Or at least 25 billion of it was manufactured money in 1967-68, for that was the amount of the record "peacetime" federal deficit for that fiscal year.

We may, indeed, decide to undertake some or all of these projects once the war in Vietnam is ended. But we should prepare ourselves not to be disillusioned when we are not handed a nice fat bundle of hard currency to finance them. It just isn't there.

The most optimistic thing that can be said about the post-Vietnam era is that, if we are lucky and no new foreign hotspot flares up, Americans may have more choice than they do now about how far into debt they want to go for the things they want to do.

Bites Foot

RATON, N.M. (AP) — Peter Snow's bedroll slid part way out of his tent, and a bear took a taste of it. Officials at the Philmont Scout Ranch, about 90 miles southwest of Raton, said the bear's bite cut a quarter-inch gash in young Snow's foot.

The 15-year-old scout will receive rabies shots as a precaution. Officials at the ranch said there have been problems about bears attempting to get food from scout camps, but this is the first time a bear has bitten someone.

Boyle Opens His Mailbag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Mondays are not only a bore —they're also dangerous. An insurance company has found that more accidents on the job occur on Monday than any other day. The second most dangerous work day is Friday.

To cut down on the cost of cowboys, Japanese ranchers in mountainous areas are experimenting with sound waves to control their cattle herds. So far the high frequency sounds, which to the human ear resemble the echo of church bells, have been used to lure the cattle to feeding stations. But if they don't get fed, the cattle quit responding to the sounds.

Are you over 40, overweight and related to a diabetic? Then perhaps you should follow medical urging and take a simple test for diabetes yourself. It is estimated that some 1.6 million Americans probably are suffering from undiagnosed diabetes and by going without treatment may shorten their lives or risk blindness.

The boom in women's wigs has been followed by a boom in the men's hairpiece industry. Last year 100,000 balding U.S. men bought toupees or other forms of hirsute cranial adornment, and some 125,000 are expected to follow suit this year.

Quotable notables: "Life is not so bad if you have plenty of luck, a good physique, and not too much imagination."—Christopher Isherwood.

Menace on wheels: Some 53,000 persons died in traffic accidents in this country during 1967, notes the Automobile Legal Association, or about the total number of American lives lost in combat during World War I.

Sleep tip: Firm mattresses are restful, but not if they are too firm. A study found that sleepers on unduly hard mattresses changed positions every eight minutes, compared to a normal turnover rate of once every 12 minutes.

What is the best time of year for a child to begin taking piano lessons? Well, for one reason or another, most parents launch the musical career of their offspring in September, when school opens again.

American fears a future water shortage. But, according to the National Geographic Society, there is more fresh water hidden in the seeming dry earth than exists in all the nation's rivers, ponds, lakes and reservoirs. The problem is to get it out. At present about a fifth of all the water we use comes from underground sources.

Worth remembering: "The nicest thing about being bald is that when company comes all you have to do is straighten your tie."

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "Your Dallas-based 'Orange Team' seems to be coming along mighty well."

Jim: "It isn't my team. It was organized by Ira Corn of Dallas in the hope that if a group of players worked steadily together they could develop unbeatable bidding methods. In furtherance of that idea Mike Lawrence has moved here from California, Bobby Wolff from San Antonio, Billy Eisenberg from New York and Bobby Goldman from Philadelphia. We haven't set the world on fire as yet but we are getting better and in our last two practice matches we have defeated a couple of very strong teams."

Oswald: "Lew Mathe's California team which you beat in June included Harold Guiver, Ron von der Porten, Don Krauss and Bob Hamman. Since four of that team have represented America in World's Championship play, you can't be accused of picking soft spots."

Jim: "Here is the first slam hand of the match. I was South and Bobby Wolff North.

Oswald: "It was not an easy slam to bid. You had to worry about your singleton spade and Bobby had only a singleton diamond. A lot of pairs might stop short of slam."

Jim: "They're far too good to miss a slam merely because of singletons. Both sides made seven because West had to protect both spades and hearts and let two clubs go, whereupon the club finesse brought in the whole suit."

Nixon on Perilous Trip to November

By RALPH de TOLEDANO

MIAMI BEACH — In the time-honored (or time-abused) way of American politics, Richard Nixon has won the Republican presidential nomination. The efforts of those working for Gov. Ronald Reagan were too little and too late, of those for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller too brash and too unintelligent. Mr. Nixon started early, worked hard, and made no mistakes. For this, he was rewarded even though the convention clearly preferred Gov. Reagan.

De Toledano

Mr. Nixon will continue to work hard and those who surround him pray that he will make no mistakes as he proceeds down the booby-trap infested road to November. He will face the determined and contumacious opposition of the liberal-left and the feeling of some in his party that success isn't written in his stars. At the same time, he will have much going for him — most important being the obvious split in the Democratic Party as a result of the pervasive anti-administration sentiment which covers the nation.

But for the candidacy of former Gov. George Wallace, most Republicans would face the election with unbounded optimism. Every indication points to a Republican year. Mr. Wallace, however, can steal the South from Mr. Nixon and throw a body-blow at GOP progress in that key region.

With the nomination now his, Mr. Nixon must make the most important decision of his career. Will he desert the conservatives who guaranteed him that nomination? Will he accept the conservative mood so manifest in the 1966 congressional and gubernatorial elections? Or will he turn now to the leberal-left which has so stridently opposed him in the past?

The pressure on him to capitulate to the Eastern Establishment of the GOP, to make an accommodation with the Rockefellers and John Lindsays, will be great. The temptation to carry water on both shoulders will be even greater.

The arguments seeking to persuade him to accept either of those alternatives will be many and, perhaps, persuasive. But Mr. Nixon will be in a stronger position now than he was in 1960 when he sought to be conciliatory to the liberal-left. Then he was a prisoner of the Eisenhower administration's record and the general's bland political manner. Now he can write his own ticket. It is the Democratic Party that is saddled with the onus of the Johnson years.

The former vice president therefore has the advantage of being on the offensive. Much of his campaign can and will be devoted to an exposition and an exposure of what eight Democratic years have done to the country, both at home and abroad. Vietnam, the breakdown of law and order, the present economic morass — these will occupy his attention.

But he must also present a positive face to the voters. He will have programs to offer, plans for the future to make known. Where he stands will be demonstrated in many ways. But what will count the most is the rate of his political heartbeat and the bent of his sympathies.

If his heart beats faster for the left, then he will be in trouble. Many Republicans, now anxiously watching him, will either go fishing or, in the angished frustration, mark their protest by voting for George Wallace.

That would be tragic for Mr. Nixon, for the GOP, and for the country. The man who lost because of votes destroyed or not counted in Texas, Missouri, and Illinois would be deprived of that excuse. This time, whether it be victory or defeat, the responsibility will be Dick Nixon's.

"Thank goodness, all those convention kooks are gone!"

Henry J. Taylor

LBJ's Colleagues Think He Will Run

Separately, privately and with complete personal conviction, six senators — four Democrats and two Republicans — all of whom have served in the Senate with Lyndon B. Johnson more than 20 years, tell me they are convinced he will reverse himself and run again for the presidency.

They're not influenced by the dime-a-dozen rumors to this effect which, they say, are inevitable and are bound to persist. On April 3, reagrding the President's March 31 bow-out, this column wrote: "I believe President Johnson did what he did because he simply and honestly felt that his self-removal from politics at this time is in the best interest of the United States."

All six veteran Senate colleagues of Mr. Johnson concur.

They do not believe LBJ was pulling a trick at that time, even though his reversal would give that impression now and certainly his disclaimer, ". . .I will not accept the nomination of my party," is a total commitment that involves the President's integrity. But, they say, don't bet the rent money on it.

President Harry S. Truman's decision not to seek re-election came only after his administration's popularity had sunk to 23 per cent in the Nov., 1951, Gallup Poll and Sen. Estes Kefauver, a relative nobody, defeated him in the New Hampshire Democratic primary the following spring. Mr. Johnson was wallowing in a similar nadir.

Moreover, here is a piece of unwritten history told me by former President Herbert Hoover himself regarding President Calvin Coolidge's famous disclaimer: "I do not choose to run for President in 1928." And Mr. Hoover, the Coolidge cabinet's most distinguished member, was the man most affected by the final result.

President Coolidge broke his silence on Aug. 2, 1927, nearly a year prior to the Republican National Convention. Some said "choose" could be interpreted, in Mr. Coolidge's New England vernacular, as "prefer not" or "do not intend," and left the door open for a draft.

Mr. Hoover, in turn, told me that he was "as puzzled as the rest of the country by what the President said." But, to the end, Mr. Coolidge never said one word more to clear up the speculation or close off the debate.

Mr. Hoover told me he did not discuss the debated statement with the President until that September. It was "a very private talk between two very close friends," alone in the White House. Mr. Hoover told Mr. Coolidge: "If you will accept renomination through a draft or any other way, I am anxious to support you."

Yet, Mr. Hoover said, "Mr. Coolidge made no direct reply—neither 'yes' nor 'no'," even in this utmost privacy. And not until later did Mr. Hoover make a discovery that surprised him for the rest of his life.

He found that at the 1928 convention even President Coolidge was told by telephone by his convention representative, Sen. Hugh A. Butler of Nebraska, that no draft for him would develop this late. With Mr. Coolidge still silent, Mr. Hoover was nominated by acclamation on the first ballot.

As for President Johnson, all six long-time Senate colleagues state that, in shirt-sleeve sessions among confidants, Mr. Johnson simply has not gone all-out for Hubert Humphrey. They tell me it is not hard for them to picture Mr. Johnson explaining to old colleagues and others, in due course, that Mr. Humphrey "had every chance I could give him, but he just did not catch fire."

Democratic National Committee Chairman John M. Bailey stated on June 18 that the Kennedy family, through Kenneth P. O'Donnell, had asked that a memorial service for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy be held at the Chicago convention. But Mr. Johnson's 60th birthday comes on Aug. 27, the second day of the gathering. And the plan is to make a Johnson demonstration the peak moment.

Mr. Johnson, claim the senators, could react to this as being a draft — compelling and in the national interest. They insist that, along with other diversified rationalizations, his removal statement would not be, to Mr. Johnson, a major obstacle. The senators claim this by long and intimate experience.

Right or worng, they now believe that Mr. Johnson will repudiate his own removal and run again.

Dear Ann:

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: "Picked On Teen" needs more advice than you gave her. Perhaps I can succeed where you failed. I had a mother like hers and she nearly wrecked my life. I'd like to tell that girl what a kindly clergyman told me.

Dear Picked On: No one can give anyone else a nervous breakdown. If a person has a nervous breakdown it is because he or she cannot stand the strain and stress of life.

My mother always used her nerves as a club to keep everyone in line. If she didn't get her way she would yell at my father, "You're going to give me a nervous breakdown." It always worked. When I got older she used the same technique on me. I was so afraid I'd be responsible for sending my mother to a mental institution that I obeyed her every command and broke my neck to satisfy her slightest whim.

When I was 23 I began to date a medical student. He was the kindest and most intelligent man I had ever known. We fell deeply in love. Mother hated him because he was short and his family was poor and undistinguished. When I told her we were going to be married she said, "If you marry that runt I'll have a nervous breakdown." I became so confused and unsure of myself I developed terrible headaches and couldn't go to work.

My doctor urged me to talk to my clergyman. My clergyman advised me to tell my mother that if my marriage was going to cause her to have a nervous breadkown I was sorry but I was going ahead with the marriage.

That was 10 years ago. Mother has been surprisingly easy to live with since I called her bluff. She now enjoys her four grandchildren and has never mentioned a nervous breakdown since.—RUG PULLED

Dear Rug: Thanks for your fine letter. You certainly gave "Picked On Teen" more help than I did, and I thank you.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I confess I used to read your column for kicks but now I am hooked by your good advice. You let me down badly the other day when you gave a flip reply to the woman who wanted to know if she should spend $100 on a suit to bury her uncle in. The woman said he was an atheist and she was afraid she'd get a lot of criticism from her religious relatives. You replied, "Don't spend $100 on a burial suit for an atheist. He'd be all dressed up with no place to go."

How do you know where he is going? Have you ever known anyone who came back with a report? Some very outstanding people in this world are atheists or agnostics. In my opinion you owe them all an apology. — VALLEJO READER

Dear Reader: I'm sorry if you thought I was flip, but humor can be a useful device and I sometimes use it when I feel it would be pointless to engage in serious debate.

You are right when you say many distinguished individuals are nonbelievers. While I respect their right to hold an opinion different than mine, I also feel sorry that they may one day be deprived of the strength and the enormous emotional support that belongs to those who have faith in God.

* * *

Confidential to Him And Me: Tell your friend all kinds of people read this column for all kinds of reasons. It is strange that he describes your interest as "the morbid curiosity of an eavesdropper or a window-peeper" while he claims his interest is that of a sociologist who wishes to explore behavior problems of the masses. Tell him applesauce.

* * *

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Prague's Past Never Far From Sight

By ROBERT COCHNAR

NEW YORK (NEA) — On a midsummer's night in Prague, when only the clickity-clicks of a passing tram and the tinny wail of "Mrs. Robinson" from a transistor radio remind the visitor of the 20th century, the atmosphere at the Charles bridge is positvely medieval.

The baroque immensity of Hradcany Castle — now the seat of government — looms above the old sector, guarded by the Gothic spires of churches and the jagged escarptments which have seen centuries of wars and occupations.

Prague is a city caught between the sleepy comfort of an age long dead and the stridency of contemporary life. And the recent liberal movement has sharply etched the dichotomy.

At first light, the medievalism vanishes. The streets crowd with cars, trolleys and people. The Vltava River, about which Smetana wrote such intensely nationalistic music, bustles with barges and the occasional punt of a tourist or worker on his day off.

The citizens of Prague are intensely aware of history and delight in directing the visitor to one or more of the houses where the writer Franz Kafka lived, now that Kafka is an "approved" person. They also point, with some amusement, to the great pedestal from which a stone Stalin once peered disapprovingly. The statue was toppled several years ago when Stalin became a "nonperson."

Unlike the Slovaks who occupy the eastern area of Czechoslovakia, the Czechs of Prague consider themselves tied to Western Europe's cultural traditions. To the Czechs, most Slovaks are little better than Russians and Russians, of course, are barbarians.

That's why the bookstores are filled with inexpensive paperbacks (popular American authors: Hemingway, Fitzgerald, Baldwin, Styron and, curiously, Norman Mailer) and superb classical records which can be purchased for as little as $2.

At the same time, scarce consumer goods are almost beyond the reach of the average worker. But performances at the magnificent baroque opera house play to SRO audiences.

Starchy hotels offer rock 'n' roll music nightly and poetry readings are regular happenings in the many wine houses. "Laterna Magica," the unique which made a splash at the Czechoslovakian Pavilion of Expo '67, still packs them in at its permanent home just off Wenceslaus Square.

And, of course, there's the movies. Barandov Studios, located in the hills above Prague, has been turning out first-class films since the '20s, although Americans weren't really aware of this until "The Shop on Main Street" won an Academy Award in 1967.

American actor Bradford Dillman, on location in Prague for "The Bridge at Remagen," the first American film to be made in Czechoslovakia (by David Wolper for United Artists), says that Czech technicians "do amazing things on ridiculously small budgets. Our film, to the Czechs, is a superspectacle but they know their jobs well."

By Hollywood standards, the equipment at Barandov is out of date, but this hasn't stopped the studio from producing such superlative films as "Closely Watched Trains" and "The Shop on Main Street."

In all, even a once-oppressive Communist regime couldn't stop Czechs from expressing themselves in the arts. Abstract art, widely condemned elsewhere in East Europe, has been flourishing for years. "Socialist realism" receives snickers from discerning Czechs.

And now that Alexandre Dubcek, the Communist party chief, seems to be succeeding in his programs of "democratic socialism," much to the dismay of the Russians, the gates of culture are swinging wide open.

Press censorship has been lifted and, for the first time since 1948, writers have been able to say what they think. "All this freedom is a bit euphoric," a journalist confessed. "You have to understand that it takes some time to become adjusted to the fact that one can criticize without being clapped in jail."

The liberalization, one writer argues, was just a matter of time. "After all," he says, "we live too close to West Germany and Austria. We know what is happening there and we know it could happen here as well. And now, finally, it may very well happen."

Still, the Czechs can poke fun at the loosening. Author Pavel Kohout, with tongue in cheek, suggests that eventually "The Central Administration of Publications will see to it with firmness that the newspapers and publishers print every manuscript in turn, according to when it is received."

He adds, "I do not dare to foresee what the next developments will be, but one thing must be admitted by even the worst pessimist: A great time lies ahead for us all — unless something else bars our way again."

Centering upon the debut of El Cordobes at Madrid, the authors tell the story of a poor boy from a Loyalist family who not only became the idol of the bullring because of his dramatic courage but was a symbol of the recovery from the despair of the Civil War.

The Police Establishment, by William W. Turner. An expose of the frightening power and influence of a new force in today's society.

Women Alone, by Isabella Taves. Every year thousands of married women suddenly find themselves widows or divorcees and are thrust from the mainstream of society into a new life filled with problems. The author, herself a recent widow — has written a fascinating book, filled with insight and sympathy.

Mrs. Appleyard and I, by Louise Andrews Kent. The story of a happy marriage, of children, of Brookline, of mouth-watering food, of Vermont and the restoration of the beautiful family houses at Kents' Corner.

Plots Against Presidents, by John M. Potter. The assassination attempts on the lives of U. S. Presidents are dramatically reconstructed by the author.

In Richard's World, by William H. Barnwell. A story of three battles — the struggle of the Southern Negro to believe in the possibility of change; the struggle of Southern whites to accept that change; and, the struggle of a Southern minister determined to come to terms with his loyalties and his morality.

The Ecstatic Adventure, ed. by Ralph Metzner. Thirty-eight vastly different people describe their experiences with psychedelic drugs.

New Fiction

Happy Families, by Saul Maloff. A probing novel, both comic and poignant, about a guest and an obsession. See in New York, it centers on a man's search for his teen-age daughter.

Over the Fence, by Rick Sterry. Chevy and Daniel when in college, accepted their solemn duty to rebel against the establishment. But now as businessmen, they find that the most formidable barrier to the brave and free world they would create is their own inherited conservatism.

Grass Roots, by Jane Barry. Proving that grass roots politics is just as dramatic as a Presidential election, this suspenseful narrative probes the inside story of a political campaign — the candidates, their wives, the men behind the scene, the deals, etc.

Among Thieves, by George Cuomo. A remarkable novel which presents an unforgettable drama of contemporary life, triggered by a prison uprising in which the rioters will deal only with the local television commentator.

Next Season, by Michael Blakemore. The cliches of the theater novel have no part in this totally convincing portrayal of several crucial months in the life and career of a young actor.

Mysteries

Death of a Con Man, by Josephine Bell.

The Father Hunt, by Rex Stout.

The Long Short Cut, by Andrew Garve.

Kill With Kindness, by Dell Shannon.

Look Away, Look Away!

Betty Canary

A great amount of space in publications, aided and abetted by toymakers and manufacturers of miniature puzzles and string and bead games, is given over to showing mother what to do for her children on rainy days.

The articles are clipped by single aunts and the boxes of games are bought mostly by uniformed uncles, then shipped off to favorite nieces and nephews, who promptly scatter them all over the basement — except for the pick-up-sticks, which, naturally, they throw at each other.

The fallacy here is that it is assumed children come inside on rainy days while the truth is, they come inside on hot, sunshiny days and go outside on gray, drizzly ones.

The children have a certain amount of logic on their side, for otherwise how would they be able to track mud over newly mopped floors or accumulate wet socks behind their beds for mildewing?

Assuredly, children do not tell mothers they want to go out and play in the rain. If they did that, they would be encumbered with raincoats or bathing suits, told to go sail boats in the gutter and have a good time. What they do is, after a circuitous trip around the neighborhood, suddenly appear at your side, complete with sodden clothes and to flail their arms and announce, "It's still raining!"

"Why don't you play with the nice box uncle Don sent?" you ask sweetly, as you tear off their clothes for yet another spin in the dryer.

"Ahhhhh, I want to go to the pool. Why can't we go swimming?" they answer.

On perfect days — the kind poets praise with lines about the sun being butter in the sky, children prefer staying in the house.

"Go outside, darlings," you urge. "Later, I'll take you to the swimming pool."

"Ahhhh," they answer, as they gather their friends about them in sweaty groups on the living room rug, "it's too hot — who wants to go swimming anyway?"

Spielman-Lane Marriage Vows

Miss Sandra Lee Spielman, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert G. Spielman, Satellite Beach, Fla., formerly of Dixon, became the bride of Capt. Emmitt Deder Lane, son of Capt. and Mrs. Edward A. Lane, Annandale, Va., in a military wedding held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Maxwell AFB Chapel, Montgomery, Ala.

Maj. David P. Jordan, Gunter AFB Chaplain, officiated as vows were spoken by the couple before an altar trimmed with palms and four white floral arrangements, and nuptial music for the double-ring ceremony was provided by Dr. Simpson Montgomery, organist, and Dr. Norman Parks, vocalist, both of Maxwell AFB. Their selections included "Because," "Wedding Prayer" and "Whither Thou Goest."

Given in marriage by her father, Saturday's bride was attired in a floor-length wedding gown of white silk organza accented by pearl-embroidered appliques of Alencon lace. A scooped neckline and long sleeves tapering to wristpoints were features of the gown's molded bodice, and a detachable chapel-length train fell from a waistline back-bow. Organza flowers and petals formed the contoured headpiece that held her bouffant bridal veil of illusion tiers, and white roses and foliage were combined in her cascading bouquet.

MRS. EMMITT D. LANE

Miss Judy Campbell, Macon, Ga., attended the bride as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Price, Boston, Mass.; Miss Jean Dugae, Cambridge, Mass.; Miss Sarah Childs, Houston, Tex., and Miss Barbara Spielman, Satellite Beach, sister of the bride.

Begonia-rose crepe fashioned Miss Campbell's full-length empire gown which featured elbow-length sleeves and a floating back-panel edged with matching lace, and she carried a cascade of pink roses. Identically styled gowns of pastel pink crepe were worn by the bridesmaids, and their flowers were red roses. Clusters of pearls and maline veiling accented their headdresses of matching hair-braid roses.

Mrs. Spielman's pastel blue costume was complemented by blue accessories, and the bridegroom's mother selected a turquoise ensemble and matching accessories. Both wore shoulder corsages of orchids.

Attending Mr. Lane as best man was William Baxter Jr., Norfolk, Va., and groomsmen were Lt. Larry Birchfield, Dallas, Tex.; Lt. Ralph Pucci, Perth Amboy, N. J.; Lt. John MacDonald, South Bend, Ind., and Lt. William Melvin, Norfolk.

Wedding guests from Dixon, Sterling, Chicago, Aurora and from Biloxi, Miss.; Norfolk and Annandale, Va.; Columbia, S.C.; Macon, Ga.; Montgomery, Ala.; Columbus, Ohio; Satellite Beach and Jacksonville, Fla.; Perth Amboy, N. J., and San Juan, Puerto Rico, were ushered by Capt. Christopher Renn, Jacksonville, and Lt. Randall Sinclair, Annandale.

The Maxwell AFB Officer's Club was the setting for a reception following the ceremony when Mrs. Carlton Worton, Dixon, registered guests, and a tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Helen Spellmeyer, Aurora, formerly of Dixon, and Miss Gladys Spielman, Chicago.

Pink accessories and an orchid corsage accented the white coat and dress ensemble worn by the bride when the couple departed on a wedding trip to Nassau. A granddaughter of the Ralph Spielmans, Dixon, she graduated in 1965 from KSB Hospital School of Nursing, and has been serving as a lieutenant in the Air Force at Maxwell AFB.

Capt. Lane graduated from William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va., and is currently stationed with the Air Force in Mildenhall, England, where they will be residing.

Tailored Frocks For Autumn in Variety of Plaids

Well-tailored fashions in all types of plaids will be the subject schoolgirls like best this fall. There's a classic, traditional feeling to the clothes for the coming semester reflected in both fabrics and styling.

Tartans — Black Watch, Steward d'Or, King George — in carefree cotton blends lend a Scottish air to much fall finery. They look prettiest when designed with kilt-pleated skirts or touches of white, wide sashes for the little ones.

Crisp glen plaids, windowpane and tattersall patterns, just like mother's this year, have carried over to the pencil-box set. Starchy white bibs, soft, billowy sleeves, definite shaping, more often than not achieved with a belt, are other feminine touches.

Paris Look Depends on Neat Hairdo

PARIS (UPI)—One of the most important ingredients of the new Paris look for this fall and winter had nothing to do with coats, dresses, suits or evening gowns.

It began with a new hairdo. Gone were all the busy, bushy, elaborate hairstyles that meant hours at the coiffure and a half-dozens hairpieces.

Not one Paris haute couture salon showed hairstyles that could be considered elaborate by comparison with last season's curls and complicated hairstyles.

This season the head was small, either cropped close like a boy's or pulled into a womanly chignon.

Sometimes for evening a piece was added to make the bob look like long hair or the chignon look bigger, but it was seldom so extravagant that one stopped to think "that has to be a hairpiece."

The Chignons were especially small and neat at Dior and one pretty blonde Swedish model wore a cropped cut that looked almost like Twiggy's old hair style.

Adding to the small head look were dozens of helmets and hoods. Dior made tiny helmets like baby bonnets and fastened them neatly under the chin, sometimes with chain, sometimes with a fabric strap. Other times there were detachable hoods growing out of jersey tunic blouses.

CHANEL IN DICTIONARY

For years, fashion pages have been filled with coats and suits that are described as Chanel style. The straight, tailored clothes described are variations on a theme set by Gabrielle Chanel, a French fashion designer, whose classic, ageless styles are popular for both city and suburbs. Chanel has become so famous that she's now mentioned in a new dictionary of the English language.

Leather Belts Score Instant Fashion Success

A season of separates is on the way, and no accessory will be more vital to that smart "pulled together" look than the leather belt.

Add the right belt in the right leather to a body-shirt worn with pants — a cashmere button-down sweater tucked into a pleated skirt — or a gathered skirt and blouse teamed with cropped jacket. The result is instant coordination.

Most belts are now back at the waist — where they started. Checking widths, you'll find that they run from the string belt to four-inchers, with most in the one to one-and-a-half-inch category. Texturally, American belt leathers feature a full range of finishes: grained and smooth leathers, antiqued and waxy leathers, suede, embossed and real patent leathers, and brushed and harness leathers.

First Battleship-Monitor Found in Atlantic Ocean

By BOB MARTIN

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — While the proud and mighty battleship New Jersey steams through the Pacific, the antecedent of all battleships rests at the bottom of the ocean just off Cape Hatteras, N.C.

But if a group of men, working in secrecy since last April meet with success, that tiny ship, the USS Monitor, will be found, raised, and exhibited to the public.

The 127-foot "cheesebox on a raft" is famous for three achievements: Saving the Union blockade from the ironclad threat of the Confederate ship Merrimac at the battle of Hampton Roads on Mar. 9, 1862; demonstrating the obsolescence of the wooden warship; and making the movable turret a prime feature of most warships.

The original Monitor, built by Swedish-born inventor John Ericson at the Greenpoint Navy Yard, Brooklyn, N.Y., in the first two months of 1862, was not a seaworthy vessel.

On the night of Dec. 30, 1862, she foundered in one of the frequent storms off Cape Hatteras —"graveyard of the Atlantic" —and sank with the loss of 4 officers and 12 men out of her crew of 63.

Mystery

The location of the "tin can on a shingle" has been a mystery ever since. Accounts of her sinking place her location from 1 to 25 miles offshore.

Robert F. Marx, a professional treasure-diver, claimed to have found the Union ironclad in 1955 while diving in about 50 feet of water a mile offshore, but said he could not locate the ship on subsequent dives due to shifting of the sandy ocean bottom.

The group now exploring off Hatteras is a partnership between the state of North Carolina, which claims ownership under a 1967 law, and the North Carolina Tidewater Services, Inc., a salvage company.

Samuel P. Townsend, supervisor of underwater archaeology for North Carolina's State Department of Archives and History, has granted an exclusive permit to the company, under provisions of the new law, to explore for wrecks in a nine-square-mile area directly offshore and to the northeast of Hatteras point.

Buried Under Sand

Many of the wrecks in the area are probably buried under shifting sand, said Robert L. Simmons, 50, a company director. The water runs to a depth of about 40 feet there.

To locate wrecks, the underwater explorers are using a differential proton magnometer, which is designed to produce outlines of buried metal hulls.

The instruments show one outline of 160 to 180 feet by 45 to 50 feet. The monitor measured 172 by 41 feet.

Though Simmons denies that the object of his search is the Monitor, everyone else connected with the project contradicts him. Marx said Simmons had written him that he as "positive" that the instrument find was the ironclad, and that it was at the location Marx had previously reported.

Rear Adm. E. M. Eller, director of naval history, said the Navy was not interested in the vessel and would not claim her if raised. Townsend indicated he would probably try to keep the ship in North Carolina hands by paying the company 75 per cent of the vessel's worth under the 1967 law.

No one, however, has any idea how much the Monitor would be worth if raised in good condition.

Robinson To Support Democrat

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jackie Robinson, the first Negro to crack the "color line" in major league baseball, said he will resign from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's staff to support the Democrats in November because he says Richard M. Nixon has "sold himself out to the bigots in the south."

Robinson dennounced the Republican ticket of Nixon and Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland as "racist" in an appearance on a local television program (WNBC's "searchlight") Sunday.

Robinson said he would give his support to the Democratic nominee, no matter whether he is Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota or Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota.

"And I intend to go over, if the Democrats would have me now, and support the democratic nominee to the best of my ability in 1969, and pray to God that every black man and every minority in this country does the same," Robinson said.

"Because if we don't, we're in very, very serious trouble in this country if Richard Nixon is the...President of the United States in 1968."

and city firemen responded to four small fires. But no curfew was put into effect.

A helicopter with search lights hovered over the area as police and snipers exchanged shots.

Reddin said, "there was massive response by police. They (the police) were fired upon. There will be those who said we overreacted, but it's better to overreact and control it. In this case, we did react massively."

Many Southern Illinois Demos Can't Support HHH; Mrs. Garagiola

HERRIN, Ill. (UPI) — Many Southern Illinois Democrats and independents cannot support Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for president, according to a veteran Democratic precinct committeewoman.

Mrs. Juanita Garagiola, 51, an active worker in her party for 35 years, warned that former Alabama Gov. George Wallace would win votes by default in a contest between Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon.

"Surely we can come up with another candidate" other than Humphrey or Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, she said.

Mrs. Garagiola, who said she could have supported New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, urged Americans to "let your delegates know how you feel about the man they would nominate."

Frightened

"As a mother and grandmother, I am frightened for the future of my grandchildren. As a Democrat committeeman, I am downright disgusted," she said.

A precinct committeewoman for 10 years and a party worker for 35 years, Mrs. Garagiola said, "There is something very much wrong. Our country is filled with confusion and turmoil.

"And it would be well for the delegates to the Democratic National Convention to do an about face and pay more attention to the man they select as our Democratic presidential candidate. We want and need a leader who is strong in word and deed ...

Time To Wake Up

"It is time for the delegates and the rank and file of the Democratic party to wake up and face the fact that Hubert Humphrey is not that man.

"No, we do not need another flannel mouth. We do need a square-shooter whose concern is for all of the people regardless of who they are or how they vote."

"It cannot solve the Vietnam problem," he said.

He said the platform does not call for an "unconditional" halt to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, the end to "aggression in South Vietnam" or the withdrawal from South Vietnam of U.S. and allied forces.

"On the contrary, the Republican platform seeks to continue and mainain the puppet Saigon regime as the neocolonial instrument of the United States," he said.

According to Le, the Republican architects of the platform—led by Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois—were "not realists."

Asked to comment on the Democratic Party position on the war, Le said President Johnson and Humphrey have directed U.S. policy in Vietnam and both are Democrats.

"We have already criticized and condemned the policies of the leaders of the U.S. government," he said.

He said the Johnson-Humphrey policy is that of "intensifying" the war.

South Vietnamese soldiers reported killing 22 North Vietnamese, capturing 11 and seizing 11 weapons in a two-day sweep that ended Sunday four miles east of Quang Tri city, below the eastern end of the DMZ. Two South Vietnamese were reported killed and 11 wounded.

North Vietnam meanwhile took special pains to deny that any of its troops were fighting in South Vietnam.

State Police Probe Area Auto Accidents

State Police were kept busy Sunday investigating four accidents in the area but there was only one which resulted in any serious injury.

Injured and taken to Mendota Hospital following a one-car accident 3½ miles north of Mendota Sunday was Darrel P. Cline, Dixon.

Troopers reported the Cline vehicle was northbound on the roadway and failed to make a turn. The vehicle then ran off the road and through a field, up and embankment and over a culvert and guard railing before coming to rest.

No arrests were made following the accident as the investigation of the incident by State Police is incomplete.

Cline is listed in fair condition in Mendota Hospital this morning.

Michael Evanovich Jr., 30, Ohio, was ticketed by State Police yesterday for traveling too fast for conditions following a semi-truck accident on Ill. 88, 10 miles north of Sterling.

The Evanovich semi was traveling south on Ill. 88, when the vehicle ran off the right side of the roadway and overturned, Police said.

The semi was hauling a load of hogs at the time, four of which were killed as a result of the incident.

Evanovich was taken to Community General Hospital in Sterling following the accident where he was treated and released.

A Freeport motorist and a Rochelle youth were both ticketed following a three-car accident on the Pines road, three miles west of Oregon, Sunday.

Ticketed following the incident were Charles E. Berry, 17, Rochelle, and Robert G. Demier, 26, Freeport.

State Police report that the Demier and Berry vehicles were westbound on the Pines Road along with a third auto operated by Bernita D. Bamborough, 44, Forreston, when the left front wheel of the Berry auto fell off the vehicle and rolled into the path of an unidentified eastbound auto.

The driver of the Bamborough vehicle applied the brakes of the vehicle, but was struck in the rear by the Demier car, Police said.

Berry was cited by State Police for driving with unsafe equipment and Demier for following too closely, following an investigation.

No injuries were reported and only minor damage was done to all three autos.

A fourth accident in the area occurred Sunday on Ill 72 near the Mount Morris Blacktop.

Vehicles driven by David H. Johnson, 18, Blue Mound, Wis., and Olive L. Green, 59, Mount Morris, were traveling west on Ill. 72 when the Green vehicle attempted to make a left turn. The driver of the Johnson car attempted to pass the turning vehicle and struck the Green auto.

No arrests or injuries resulted from the incident.

Ghetto Supermarkets Under Investigation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Poor people shopping at ghetto supermarkets have been sold inferior food and possibly charged higher prices than consumers buying in more affluent areas, according to a congressional committee report.

The controversial report was issued during the weekend by the House Government Operations Committee after weeks of debate behind closed doors.

The report recommended immediate new steps—including creation of a committee composed of food industry and government officials—to guarantee slum residents the most for their grocery dollars.

Drafted by a special consumer subcommittee headed by Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., the report was far less critical of food chain store management in the inner city than had been expected. A shortage of concrete evidence was said to be a serious problem and further federal investigation of supermarket operations was urged.

Clarence G. Adamy, president of the National Association of Food Chains, rejected the committee's findings in a statement that anticipated the report's release.

"Food chains do not now and never have discriminated against any groups or class customers and fully recognize their obligations to deal fairly and honestly with everyone they serve. Countless objective studies of the subject—proved this to be the case. Any findings to the contrary in those cities is wrong and insupportable by any of the evidence before the committee," Adamy said.

The report was based on hearings and investigations by the subcommittee members and staffs, including congressmen who did some shopping of their own in Washington, New York City and St. Louis.

It concluded that inner city chain stores "have engaged in the sale to low income consumers of food items of lower quality than are available in outlets located in middle and upper income areas."

It said evidence of higher prices at slum stores "though not conclusive, is sufficient to cause the committee's great concern and to warrant immediate attention by the responsible federal agency.

It also said there was "considerable evidence" to support charges that prices were sometimes hiked on the days when welfare checks and food stamps were issued.

Among recommendations in a detailed blueprint for industry and government action, the report said the food chain industry should consider setting up a joint industry-poor consumers committee.

This is a project of the Retail-Service Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.

Display space will be provided along the two-block stretch for merchants whose stores do not front onto First Street.

Humphrey Expects First-Ballot Win

By United Press International

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says delegates to the Democratic convention beginning two weeks from today will grant him the presidential nomination on the first ballot after sidestepping a bitter platform fight over Vietnam policy.

Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota and George S. McGovern of South Dakota hope to prove Humphrey wrong on both counts.

McGovern, who entered the race Saturday, wasted no time getting his campaign underway. The former bomber pilot said Sunday in a television interview (NBC's "Meet the Press") that U.S. bombing of North Vietnam had been a failure and would have to be stopped before the war could be ended.

"It doesn't work against a primitive agricultural society such as North Vietnam," said McGovern. "It has enflamed public opinion against us all around the world and it's the first thing we've got to stop if we want to end this war."

Plank Fight

The 46-year-old senator said he would fight for a "strong Vietnam plank in the platform" at the Democratic convention.

McCarthy, in Los Angeles today for conferences and campaigning to win support from the 174-member California delegation pledged to the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, said Sunday he would "go all the way" in his bid for the presidency.

Humphrey said Sunday in another interview ABC's "Issues and Answers" that his aides tell him he now has nearly 1,600 first ballot votes—almost 300 more than the 1,312 needed to win the nomination. The vice president also said he did not think "we are going to have too much difficulty in arriving at a responsible and reasonable" Vietnam platform position.

Humphrey also discounted the possibility of a McCarthy-McGovern coalition that could turn into a "stop Humphrey" drive at the convention.

Nixon Unwinds

In other political developments:

Richard Nixon—The Republican presidential nominee, unwinding after his convention victory, rested in California with his family and Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, his new running mate.

Lester Maddox—The governor of Georgia said Sunday he probably will seek the Democratic presidential nomination within a few days to "save the Democratic party."

Jackie Robinson—The first Negro in major league baseball and a campaigner for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said he would desert the GOP and support the Democrats in November. He said Nixon "has prostituted himself and sold himself out to the bigots in the south."

The group took both the Governor's Gold Trophy and the state's silver trophy, and a plaque for the team with the highest number of total points, 83.90.

Graziano's car also traveled across the road and came to rest in a ditch of the same field. Graziano's wife and child were in the car at the time of the accident.

Reitzel Wins Twice At Speedbowl Park

STERLING — It was a hard night on racing equipment, but the weatherman and all the other contributing circumstances finally teamed up to make Sunday night's late-model stock-car racing program at Speedbowl Park here a real thriller from start to finish. Two races, a semi-feature and a feature, had to be held over from last week's rain-shortened program, thus making a total of 10 races throughout the evening. Evidence of the keen competition is shown by the fact that there were nine different first-place winners, with Daehle Reitzel, Sterling, the only driver to win twice during the evening.

Roger Dolan, Tipton, Iowa, who won the feature at Speedbowl two weeks ago, duplicated this feat by finishing first in the regular feature. Lloyd Ewing, Kewanee, won the feature which was held over from last week.

The event hardest on equipment was this week's regularly scheduled feature. Trouble started before even one lap could be completed, as Fred Strube and another car brushed together, tearing the right door off Strube's car.

Jerry Rinehart, Moline, who had taken the lead initially in the race, slowed his pace somewhat after about five laps, with Walt Carney running hard in first place. Meanwhile Don Bohlander pulled alongside Rinehart's car going into the number three turn and Lloyd Ewing promptly followed suit by pulling along the left side of Bohlander's machine. As the three rounded this turn headed for the number four turn, Rinehart's car swerved to the right, struck the wooden fence, and overturned. Fortunately, Rinehart was not injured; however, his car was heavily damaged.

For some unexplained reason, apparently mechanical difficulties, Carney, who was leading the race when the red flag was displayed, did not re-enter the restart lineup. Thus, when the green flag came out again, Jim Strube jumped into the first spot. Dolan chased him for 10 laps before finally moving into first on the 16th lap.

This was no easy trick for Dolan, who was not only attempting to move into the top spot-light but at the same time was doing his best to keep ahead of Jim Gerber, driving Verlin Eaker's 1965 hemi-powered Dodge. When Dolan did get into first place, he was not about to let his 1962 Ford convertible be caught by anyone. As the checkered flag came out it was Dolan, Strube, Gerber, Jack Rebholz and Don Bohlander in that order for the top five spots.

The most serious accident of the night occurred in this week's semi-feature. Tom Kelly, Kewanee, bounced off another car and then struck the outside retaining fence going into the number four turn, causing his smashed car to promptly burst into flames. Kelly crawled from the car unassisted, immediately setting to work combating the fire with an extinguisher of the type all drivers are required to have in their stock cars. Track crews finally doused the stubborn flames with larger fire extinguishers.

Feature Winner

Roger Dolan, Tipton, Iowa, is pictured above after winning the feature race at Speedbowl Park Sunday. Two feature races were run this week, because of the rain-out a week ago. Lloyd Ewing of Kewanee was the winner of the rain-out feature. Dolan also won two other heat events besides the feature and was the only double or triple winner of the evening.

Dave Cox Wins Race

Dave Cox of Loves Park led all the way through the 30-lap feature race for late model stock cars at Rockford Speedway on Saturday night and picked up his first main event win of the 1968 racing season. Cox, who is now eighth in point standings, started on the outside in the first row and took the lead going into the first turn. He was never seriously challenged even though the second place car was never more than three or four car lengths behind.

The real battle was for the five places behind Cox. Boyce Sparkman of Rockford started on the first row pole and fell right in behind Cox at the drop of the green flag. He held on to second until the 19th lap when Jerry Smith and Red Gates both squeezed by him. But it turned out that when the red flag was put out on the 19th lap so that a fire in Vaughn Gerke's carburator could be extinguished, the race was restarted on the 18th lap with Sparkman back in second. He was able to stay in the number two spot in spite of the constant pressure by Smith and the three drivers following bumper to bumper behind him.

Over all the race was one of the fastest and closest of the year with the first 11 cars all finishing in the same lap. Cox's victory helped to make up for the fact that last week leading the feature with two laps left he was forced into the wall when he hit an oil slick from a blown engine.

Cubs, Sox Baseball

By United Press International

Phil Regan signed on with the Chicago Cubs as a relief pitcher. But lately he's been getting more time on the mound than in the bullpen, and is showing he may have the stuff to last.

The big righthander worked 3½ innings against the Reds at Cincinnati Saturday night, a normal day's work. Then with starter Ken Holtzman in trouble against the Reds in the seventh Sunday, Manager Leo Durocher gave his reliefer the call again.

Regan gave up a two-run homer to let the Reds tie the score 5-5 in the eighth, then shut them out through the 14th. The 7 2-3 innings was the longest he had worked since pitching a complete game in 1965 for Detroit.

The victory, his 10th against two losses and second in as many days, kept Regan in second place National League hurlers' winning percentage.

Golden Bear Tops Rookie Lee Elder in Dramatic Playoff

By ROBERT GRIMM
UPI Sport Writer

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—When that cold cash is on the line, there's nobody the peer of Jack Nicklaus, who added another $25,000 to his already fat bank account with a dramatic playoff in the American Golf Classic.

In probably the most tension-packed tournament in several years, Nicklaus won his second first place in as many weeks the hard way Sunday, coming from behind to land in a three-way tie with Negro rookie Lee Elder and Frank Beard. The playoff was a test of nerves and skill as Nicklaus and Elder battled head to head for five holes over the torturous final three holes of the Firestone Country Club course.

Beard was the first to drop out when he parred the monsterous 625-yard 16th hole and Nicklaus and Elder grabbed birdies. On the 17th green, Elder was within five feet of the cup and Nicklaus was in a bunker, but a 20-foot putt kept the burly golden bear from Columbus, Ohio, alive.

Break in 17th

With the tournament hanging on every shot, the two players the rich and famous Nicklaus and the little known rookie, played head-to-head. The break came on the second time around at the 17th.

Both players put their second shots on the green of the par-four hole, Elder 15 feet away and Nicklaus about eight feet. Elder's putt grazed the lip of the cup and rolled a few inches past the hole.

"I played the best I knew how," said the 33-year-old Elder who only three years ago was a caddy for Billy Maxwell.

Wierd Tournament

It was a wierd tournament from start to finish. The fourth round began Sunday with a record number of players under par on this long and tough 7,180-yard course. A record 64 was shot by Seattle club pro Don Bies in the third round, and amateur Bill Campbell was still in contention after leading the pack at the half-way mark.

For Elder, the second place payoff, which he shared with Beard was $12,187, nearly matching what he had won on the tour previously this year.

Eagles Lose Snead In Exhibition Tilt

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Eagles were suffering today from a lost weekend. They lost money from a potenital turnaway crowd of 100,000 for a cancelled game at Mexico City, lost the services of quarterback Norm Snead, perhaps for the season, and lost their exhibition opener to the Detroit Lions.

Snead was hurt on the first play of a Sunday game that was rescheduled for Philadelphia after officials decided last Friday the climate of student unrest in Mexico City was unsuitable alongside the usual excitement generated by a professional football game.

Only 12, 176 showed up at Franklin Field for the pre-season curtain raiser for both teams.

Hopes Crumble

They saw Philadelphia's title hopes crumble before the season even starts as Snead suffered a broken ankle while attempting to stop Lem Barny from returning an intercepted pass for a touchdown.

Two qustions immediately arose in the minds of observers:

Would the Eagles have decided upon such a play in the rarified air of Mexico City? And, could Barney, weighted down with football equipment have scampered 46 yards at the 7,000-foot altitude of the Mexican Capital?

Snares Two

Detroit went on to defeat Philadelphia 20-3 as Barney, who grabbed 10 interceptions as a rookie last year, stole two Eagle passes that set up Lion scores.

On the first, the Snead injury, Mel Farr followed with a two-yard touchdown dive. Detroit tallied its other points on a 24 yard pass from Greg Barton to Bill Malinchak and field goals of 33 and 31 yards by rookie kicking specialist Jerry Depoyster of Wyoming.

In other Sunday games, Mike Clark kicked three field goals as Dallas edged San Francisco 16-14 and Miami tied Buffalo 28-28.

On Saturday, Kansas City defeated Minnesota 13-10 and New Orleans stopped Boston 19-0 in inter-league play. In National Football League exhibitions that night, Washington beat Atlanta 16-14, New York surprised Green Bay 15-14 and Baltimore shutout Chicago 10-0.

In the American Football League, Denver topped Cincinnati 15-13 and Oakland walloped San Diego 31-7.

Clark kicked field goals of 26, 28 and 32 yards for Dallas, the last two in the fourth period overcoming a 14-10 San Francisco lead. The Cowboys lone TD came on Les Shy's one-yard plunge that capped a 96-yard drive. The Forty-Niners got on the scoreboard with Doug Cunningham's 4 yard run and George Mira's five yard pass to Sonny Randle.

Circus Catch

All America Larry Csonka's circus catch of a Bob Griese's six-yard pass in the end zone enabled Miami to deadlock Buffalo with 3:10 remaining. Griese and rival quarterback Jack Kemp each scored on keepers to heighten the action.

Jan Stenrud's 15-yard field goal with 47 seconds left to play provided Kansas City with its victory margin over Minnesota; newly acquired Dave Parks latched onto a 33 yard pass from Bill Kilmer to start the New Orleans Saints' victory march; Washington nipped Atlanta on Charlie Gogolak's 45-yard three-pointer with 16 seconds to go; Fran Tarkenton's three-yard TD toss to Joe Morrison in the last 15 seconds beat the world champion Packers and Johnny Unitas set up a Baltimore field goal and hit John Mackie on a 12-yard ssoring pass to beat the Bears.

Bob Humphreys 33-yard field goal with five seconds to go brought Denver its victory. Cincinnati's scoring was spiced by rookie Warren McVea's 102-yard runback of a kickoff.

Daryle Lamonica threw two touchdown passes for the AFL champion Raiders in their easy victory over downstate San Diego.

Motorcycles At Speedbowl

Officials of Speedbowl Park have announced the signing of contracts with both the United States Auto Club and the Rock River Riders Motorcycle Club for competition programs at the local race track.

The motorcycle program will be a regular Friday night feature at the Speedway with sportsman scrambles events using both the improved track surface and a portion of the infield. In addition to the right and left hand turns, a ramp jump is planned for the competition course.

The motorcycle competition will be directed by the Rock River Riders and sanctioned by the American Motorcycle Association.

The USAC midgets will take to the one-third mile oval on Wednesday, Aug. 28, at 8 p.m. Many Indianapolis veterans have already indicated they expect to compete in this special program. Among the seasoned veterans expected are Gary Bettenhausen, Bob Tattersall and Davenport, Iowa's, own Mel Kenyon.

USAC officials have indicated between 30 and 50 racing machines are expected to be on hand.

The Friday night programs will begin at 8 p.m. with the gates opening at 6.

All-Stars Win Test

Jeff Short pitched a two-hitter and struck out seven men while banging out a homerun, a double and a single to lead the Bronco All-Stars past Northwestern License Service, 12-0. Mel Burgett and Jeff Wadsworth picked up the only hits off of Short, both of them were singles.

Russ Moore added two hits to help the winners cause. The All-Stars big inning was a five run fifth which knocked Mel Burgett, the losing pitcher, out of the box.

Short's double and homer were the only extra base hits of the game. Burgett struck out five while walking five. Tom Wentling, in relief of Burgett, struck out one and walked two.

League Leading Detroit Tops Boston Sox Twice

By STEVE SCHWARTZ
UPI Sports Writer

Gates Brown doesn't mind the hardwood of the Detroit Tiger's bench as long as the good wood of his bat helps bring the Bengals a pennant.

Brown, hitting a sizzling .593 as a pinch hitter, smacked a pinch homer in the 14th inning to give Detroit a 5-4 opening game victory over the Boston Red Sox Sunday and then, in a starting role, singled with one out in the ninth inning of the nightcap to cap the Tigers 6-5 come-from-behind victory and increase their American League lead to seven games.

Brown is fairly well adjusted to pinch-hitting. "I'm square as a ice cube," he maintains, "and twice as cool."

Brown, who homered as a pinch hitter in a Friday night loss, tagged Lee Stange for the game winning homer in the opener.

Nothing New

Hitting Red Sox pitching is nothing new for Brown. He blasted a home run against Boston as a pinch hitter in his first major league at bat in 1963. Pinch hitting earlier this year he homered in the ninth inning off John Wyatt, then with Boston, to give the Tigers a 4-3 win over the Sox.

In the second game Brown came to bat in the ninth inning with runners on first and third, one man out and the score tied at 5-5. He hit reliever Sparky Lyle's second pitch past first baseman George Scott's outstretched glove for the game winning single.

"I like hitting in situations like that," Brown explained, "with the infield drawn in and less than two out the pressure is on the pitcher. He's got to get the ball over."

In other A.L. action Cleveland swept a double header from Chicago 6-1 and 2-1, Oakland drubbed Washington 8-3, California mauled Baltimore 11-1 and Minnesota trounced New York 11-2.

In the National League, Atlanta beat first place St. Louis 5-3, Chicago outlasted Cincinnati 8-5 in 15 innings, Los Angeles blanked Philadelphia 1-0, Houston whipped Pittsburgh 5-1 and San Francisco swept New York 2-1 and 5-0.

Mickey Lolich picked up his third straight victory in relief for the Tigers in the first game, raising his record to 10-7. He entered the game in the 10th inning and survived two jams, one a bases-filled two-out threat in the 13th when he retired Rico Petrocelli to end the inning. John Warden won the nightcap for Detroit raising his record to 4-1. Reggie Smith homered twice in Boston's losing cause.

Rick Reichardt drove in six runs and Tom Satriano went 5-5 as California humiliated Baltimore behind the six-hit pitching of Jim McGlothlin. McGlothlin's bid for his first shut out the season was ruined by Ellie Hendrick's double and Don May's ninth inning single.

Oakland got two-run homers from Reggie Jackson, Dick Green and Joe Keough off Washington starter Joe Coleman to power the Athletics. Jim Nash gave up only two hits over the last seven innings to win his 10th game of the year against seven losses.

Cleveland beat Chicago in the first game on pinch hitter Russ Snyder's bases loaded single in the second inning to highlight a three run rally. Indian relief specialist Eddie Fisher pitched 7 2-3 scoreless innings of winning ball in the second game, after being honored by his former White Sox teammates between gams.

Tony Oliva knocked in four runs with a home run and a single and Rod Carew got four hits in becoming the only .300 hitter in the American League, as the Twins routed the Yankees. Dean Chance allowed only four hits in posting his 11th win.

How used up is a used VW?

Not very. After we get through with it. We give it the 16-point Safety and Performance Test. Then we completely recondition it. And then we guarantee 100% the repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles. Considering VWs are built to last in the first place, it's not very used up at all.

Deadly Ram

BURLEY, Idaho (AP) — A coroners jury ruled Thursday that Sarah Jones, 93, of Burley, was trampled and butted to death by a large, playful sheep that had been raised as a pet.

Mrs. Jones' bruised and cut body was found in her driveway. Blood splattered on the 175-pound ram matched the woman's type.

Two ranchers told the jury that pet sheep are unpredictable, will attack playfully, and "butt anything until their heads bleed—just playing."

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE G-549: Lola G., aged 28 is a schoolteacher.

"Dr. Crane," she protested, "I wish you'd warn young mothers to use better psychology when they name their sons!

"For example, I had a boy in the second grade whose doting mamma christened him 'Lena.'

"Imagine the ridicule and teasing he receives from his classmates!

"Why don't mothers look ahead and thus give their sons strong, masculine names?"

Foolish Mamma

Lola's point should wake up many foolish mammas.

For many boys, slender and not very athletic, already have a tough job trying to make their pals respect them, without being hampered by a sissy name.

Yet I have known men who were christened "Evelyn" and "Phyllis."

In past years, uneducated mothers at our Cook County Hospital here in Chicago would become enamored of fancy medical terms and thus ignorantly name their babies accordingly.

One such mother thus wanted to name her twin daughters "Syphilis" and "Gonorrhea," mysterious and exotic!

Another one heard the attending doctor use the word "Meconium," which refers to the fecal matter discharged by the newborn baby, and thus wished to name her infant daughter "Meconium."

Such medical names probably wouldn't cause too much harassment since many people wouldn't know what they meant, anyway.

But to saddle a boy with such monickers as "Lena" or "Evelyn" or "Phyllis" is sheer cruelty.

Such boys then may try to acquire rough and tough nicknames, such as "Spike" or "Butch" or even "Fatso."

Sometimes they become unduly fat, just due to their frustration!

In 1967, some of our hospitals reported that the most popular names for girl babies were "Lisa" and "Michelle," with "Michael" being the favorite for boys.

Many mothers thus go overboard for fancy-sounding names, instead of picking those that may inspirt youngsters to live up to the high attainments of great men of the past.

The Biblical names of Philip, Andrew, Peter, Thomas, James and John, Matthew, David, Daniel, Mark and Luke are both inspiring and masuline.

So are Franklin, Anthony, Calvin, William, George, Arthur, Alfred, etc.

Mothers, please don't saddle your children with "lightweight" names and those that you merely spell in bizarre fashion, just to be different!

Many of you parents are more juvenile than your babies in the ignorant way you try to christen your infants!

Consider these girls' names and their meanings: Abigail, joy; Agatha, kind; Alice, truth; Amy, beloved; Celeste, heavenly; Clara, bright; Cora, maiden; Deborah, bee; Diana, goddess; Flora, flowers; Florence, prosperity; Hilary, Merry; Iris, rainbow; Judith, praised; Martha, lady; Nadine, hope; Naomi, sweetness; Regina, queen; Stella, a star; Sophia, wisdom.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cent to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)
